The loss was discovered this morning by a museum attendant. It is believed the thief must have hidden in the gallery overnight and slipped out when the staff arrived for work. No evidence of a break-in has been found...

Come on Snowy! To the Museum of Ethnography!

The Director? I'm afraid he's engaged: the police are here...

Now, to recapitulate... You say the attendant locked the doors last night at 1712 hours; he noticed nothing unusual. He came on duty this morning at seven. At 0714 he observed that exhibit No. 3542 was missing and immediately raised the alarm. Right?... Now this attendant: is he reliable?

Absolutely! Above suspicion! He's been with us for over twelve years and never given the least cause for complaint.

Besides, the fetish has no intrinsic value. In my judgement, it would only be of interest to a collector...

Great snakes! The Thompsons!

Why, it's our friend Tintin!

Have you any leads?

Well, the Arumbaya fetish has no intrinsic value... er... no instinctive value... The solution is quite simple: it was removed by a collector.

To be precise: it was collected by a remover.

Some hours later...

This is the book. I'm sure it has something about the Arumbayas.

Aha! This is interesting... Listen, Snowy. "Today we met our first Arumbayas. Long, black, oily hair framed their coffee-coloured faces. They were armed with long blow-pipes which they employ to shoot darts poisoned with curare..." You hear that, Snowy?

We decided to stay there. Their generosity and gave us a plentiful

... Curare!... the terrible vegetable poison which paralyses one's breathing!... Oh! "Arumbaya Fetish"... But... but... it's the very one that's been stolen!

I therefore made an accurate sketch they urged me to go we were very well treated. Later we Odd coincidence, don't you think, Snowy?... Snowy isn't interested... he's gone to sleep... I think I'll follow suit.

The next morning...

Help! It's bewitched!

Hello!... Hello?... Hello!... Is that you, sir?

Yes, who is that?... Oh, it's you, Fred... What? The fetish?... My goodness me! I'll come at once...

Half an hour later...

Excuse me...Is this the house where Mr. Balthazar lived?

Yes, this is it. Ooh, sir, what a tragedy!...Such a polite gentleman!...And all that learning!...Maybe he wasn't all that regular with the rent, but he always paid it in the end. And such a way with animals! A parrot and three white mice, that's what he had...

I'm minding the parrot for the time being. But I can't keep it. So if you know of anyone...

Of course...I was wondering if I might look at Mr. Balthazar's room?

I'll take you up. Such a character he was...sniff... I can still see him...his everlasting black velvet suit, and that big hat...And all that smoking! A pipe in his mouth all day long, he had. But he never touched the drink...

Here is his room...

This is where we found him...sniff...They had to send for a locksmith...the door was locked from the inside...The gas was whistling out of the ring.

A little scrap of grey flannel...

And so clever he was... Just look at those flowers: you can almost smell them...

You knew Mr. Balthazar well?

Er...that's to say...not intimately...

If by any chance you found a parrot-lover...It's such a friendly bird!

Naturally, I'll remember you. Good-bye and thanks.

An accident?...Funny sort of accident, I'd say...

A very funny accident!...The gas was whistling out of the ring. So, if the tap was on when Balthazar went to bed he'd have heard it. Unless he was drunk; but he never touched drink. Therefore someone turned the tap on after the sculptor was dead, since the gas wasn't strong enough to kill the parrot. And that someone was wearing something made of grey flannel and smoking a cigarette...

...witness the piece of cloth and the cigarette end, which couldn't have belonged to the victim: he only smoked a pipe, and he wore a velvet suit. So Mr. Balthazar was murdered. He was murdered because he'd probably made a replica of the Arumbaya fetish for someone. And someone didn't want him to talk... Someone?... Someone?... Who can that 'someone' be?...How can I find out?

Great snakes!... Why not?!

Excuse me, but I've been thinking. I'll buy Mr. Balthazar's parrot.

If you'd only been two minutes sooner! I just sold it. The gentleman who bought it was here a moment ago; you must have passed him.

Look, there he goes! You see the gentleman with a parcel under his arm? That's him.

Let's hope he'll agree to resell it to me.

Grrreat greedy-guts!

Hey, you!...D'you always behave like that? Let me tell you, I'm not used to being insulted!

Very well! But another time you'll be in trouble!

GRRREAT GREEDY-GUTS!

Oh, help! It's a regular punch-up...Ooh! The parrot! The parrot!!

The parrot!!!

GRRREAT GREEDY-GUTS!

Estúpido! Imbécil! Great greedy-guts! Look what you do: my beautiful parrot ees escapado! Ees perdido!

The only witness to Balthazar's death, the only one who could have talked, and there he goes.

The parrot ees give me by my grandfather. Ay, qué desastre...All same, muchas gracias for try to catch heem.

"Give to me by my grandfather" Why tell a lie? I wonder, could he be interested in the parrot for the same reason as me?

I AM BALTHAZAR!

And I'm Colonel Barker!
Surrender! You are surrounded!

Grrreat greedy-guts! ... I am Balthazar!

Next morning ...

Faithful unto death:
a loving pet!
Last night the occupants of 21 London Road, awakened by strange noises, found ...

This time my luck's in!
Quick! A taxi!
...

TAXI! ...

TAXI!

I give up.
We'll have to walk.

Oh? The parrot?
You really are unlucky.
The gentleman who bought it yesterday came to collect it again
... Not ten minutes ago...

He beat me to it, the gangster. And now he's got the parrot back.

LOOK OUT!

Look, Snowy! You see: 169 MW.
Now watch: one... two ...

Three!... Presto!
... MW 691!

They just turned their numberplates upside down... Perfectly simple!

Now then... MW691
... Alonso Perez,
engineer, Sunny
Bank, Freshfield
... Not far from here to Freshfield...
Let's go!

That night ...

Caramba! ...
Again ees too much to right!

Ha! ha! ha! ...
Caramba! ...
WHOOPEE!

All you need do is aim more to the left: that way
you hit the bullseye ...

Muy bien, aim more to the left? ...
Why not?

GRRRREAT GREEDY-GUTS!
Silencio!
Silencio!
animal maldito!

Grrreat greedy-guts!
Grrreat greedy-guts!
PWARK!
PWARK!

Carrramba! ...
Missed again! ...

Crazy idiot! Think what that parrot means to us! Are you out of your mind? What about the fetish?

Fetish! Fetish! Al infierno weeth thees Fetish! ...
And I wreeng the neck of thees Feealthy parrot! ...

Carrramba!
... Ha! ha!
ha! ...
Grrreat greedyguts!

Now, clever Señor Tortilla, the fun begins!

Several days later...

Well?
Still nothing?

Nothing. No sign of heem anywhere!

Perhaps he see us and he keep to hees cabin... Or maybe he nevaire come aboard thees ship... Een thees case...

Ssh! Someone's coming...

Did you see?...

That feigure... eet could be...

Tintin, couldn't it?

No, ciertamente ees impossible!
... Also, how could he know?

Sssh!

Or him?

It's crazy! We've started seeing Tintins around every corner! They're all fairly short...
O.K.... But what does that prove?

But no, ees not right!
Eet ees heem! Ees First one, thees one in the Cap. I remember heem:
ees in same a croplane
and he seet behind us.
Ees following us. I tell you, ees Tintin!

All right, there's only one answer.
He's got to go!

Esta noche... tonight, after the dinner, we feex heem good!

That evening...

Now don't forget:
aim a little more to the left...

Goodnight!
... Oh!

Goodnight to you!

A weeg! Ees wearing a weeg! Ciertamente, ees heem!

Careful, he's coming! Now above all, don't miss!

OOH! ...
HELP! ...
MURDER!
HELP!

A cartoon illustration of a man in a yellow trench coat and cap, shouting "HELP! HELP! MURDER!" while holding a gun. He has a shocked expression with wide eyes and a hand to his head.

Madre! Ees close theeng... And to think I meess heem as well! ... Ees your fault. You weeth your "Leetle more to the left"!

Well, it's the first time you landed where you aimed... Anyway, it's probably a good thing you didn't hit him, since it wasn't Tintin!

There's still the other: the little old man.

Next morning ...

You are ready? We now go to work weeth thees leettle old man ...

You are ready? We now go to work weeth thees leettle old man...

Ees heem!!
Hespy on us!

O.K., let's see. We'll follow him...

O.K., let's see. We'll follow him...

No, not that way. We aren't sure it's him. I've a better idea: come with me...

Get it? If it's Tintin, he must be wearing a false beard. So...

Steady!... You're nearly there
... A little to the right...
Gently... Back a bit... That's it!... Now!

Good idea of yours to meet the boat... Excellent... But there's still the Fetish...

Don't worry... they won't have it for long!

...And that's the whole story. Look, here's the fetish they stole from the wretched Tortilla. Does anything in particular strike you about it?

I reckon it's another fake. The right ear isn't broken.

Exactly. So we still need to know two things. First, where's the real fetish... and then, what are all these gangsters really after?

RAT TAT TAT

Come in!

A letter for Mr. Tintin, sir. A police launch just brought it.

Republic of San Theodoros
Ministry of Justice
Los Dopicos

The Minister presents his compliments to Mr. Tintin and requests his presence ashore to assist in the interrogation of two suspects. Mr. Tintin is further invited to bring with him the stolen fetish. An officer will meet Mr. Tintin on shore and put himself at his disposal.

Things are beginning to move. I'll just get myself ready and then I'll go.

See you later!
Good luck!

Thanks, goodbye.

Don't forget, we'll be sailing tonight at eight o'clock.

Don't worry, I'll be back. I don't want to get stuck in this place!

All right then, that's understood. You'll pick me up here at 1900 hours.

Yes, sir.

Now we just have to wait for that obliging officer to come and put himself at my disposal!

Hey! My suitcase!

Well, well, here I am again... in the soup!

Still, it's not so bad. The launch from the "Ville de Lyon" is due to pick me up at seven. When I don't appear they'll go back to the ship and alert the Captain... He'll get me out easily enough.

Doesn't that dog belong to the lad they just took in?

Yes, and I guess he'll have a long wait for his master...

1900 hours...

Pardone, señor teniente, but are you waiting for a young man to take out to the "Ville de Lyon"?

Yes, how d'you know that?

Because he said to tell you not to wait for him. And here's a letter he asked me to give you...

"To the Captain of the Ville de Lyon." All right, thank you.

That's that taken care of!

There's the launch going back. They'll warn the Captain.

... And there's the letter the man gave me.

Las Duplicas
Dear Captain,
As you know, I planned to continue my trip with you. However, something new has come up concerning the theft of the fetish, forcing me to stay longer in Las Duplicas. I am extremely sorry if I have incon-

What's happening? It must be nearly eight o'clock and the launch still isn't back...

TOOOOT
TOOOOT

That's the "Ville de Lyon"!

They're weighing anchor... sailing without me!!

This time it's hopeless... I can't see any way to get myself off the hook...

And next morning...

Squad!... Ready!...

The next morning ...

Where's my new aide-de-camp? Not here yet?

Not yet, General.

As soon as he arrives send him in. We have work to do...

Very good, sir. At once.

Colonel!... How on earth did I come to be a colonel? I don't remember a thing...

However, I'm still looking for the fetish, and to do that I must resign my commission.

No, gentlemen: impossible. The general is waiting for his ADC. He won't see anyone this morning.

Them!

Heem!

Dh!

Ah, there you are, Colonel. We must get down to work. As for you, gentlemen: I cannot receive you this morning... Come, Colonel!

No more need for me to resign, for the time being.

The general choose heem!

It's crazy!

Thees ees bad!

Yes, now we'll have to deal with him all over again!

Meanwhile ...

His office window is open... So far so good!

It's a delicate position...

Yes, very delicate.

I'm sorry, Your Excellency, but the General can't see you this morning. The General is extremely busy...

Checkmate, my dear Colonel!

Goodness! You're right!

R.W. Trickler, representative, General American Oil. All right, show him in.

Good morning. Do please sit down.

Well, Colonel, the reason I'm here... I heard yesterday ...

Please excuse me ...

Yes, of course ...

Hello?... Hello?... Yes, Captain... What?!... They've escaped!

We are free, and soon the fetish ces ours!

And soon we'll have our revenge too; we have old scores to settle with Tintin!

Now, sir... I'm all yours...

Well, a geological survey party has just announced evidence of oil deposits in the Gran Chapo region... the desert lying partly in your own country and partly in the neighbouring territory, the Republic of Nuevo-Rico.

General American Oil seeks to obtain a concession to work these fields. Obviously, your government will have an interest in the profits that would accrue...

I see. I'm afraid General Alcazar is ill, and I cannot...

Of course, of course. But you could render us invaluable service. I mentioned that part of the oil-fields lie in Nuevo-Rican territory. My company wishes to exploit the whole region: so it follows that you must take over the area.

But... that would mean war!

Unfortunately, yes. But what can one do? You can't make an omelette without breaking eggs, can you, Colonel?

So, here's the reason for my visit. We will give you 100,000 dollars in cash if you will persuade General Alcazar to undertake the campaign ... Is it a deal?

You're making a big mistake in refusing my offer. But, just as you wish, Colonel! Goodbye!

A dangerous fellow! He could wreck all our plans. I must have a word with Rodriguez about him...

Good morning, General Alcazar. I happened to be passing through your country, and thought I'd show you our latest models.

This is our very newest line: the 75 TRGP. It's a really high-quality product: flexible, easy to handle, strong, and it will toss a nice little nickel-plated shell for you over a distance of 15 kilometres.

Who! This could be serious. Listen, Ramón, las Dopicos. A detachment of Nuevo-Rican soldiers crossed into the territory of San Theodoros and opened fire on a border post. Guards returned the fire and a violent battle ensued. The Nuevo-Ricans were forced to retire across the frontier, having sustained heavy losses. The only casualty on our side was a corporal, wounded by a cactus spine.

The airport ...

Now we are off to San-facion ... the Nuevo-Rican capital.

Very good, sir.

... and six dozen 75 TRGP, with 60,000 shells, for the government of San Theodoros. Payable in twelve monthly instalments.

To General Mogador's palace.

Very good, señor.

Half an hour later ...

Back to the airport.

Si, señor.

That's Señor Bazarov's private plane

... and six dozen 75 TRGP, with 60,000 shells, for the government of Nuevo-Rico. Payment in twelve monthly instalments.

Tintin went past in a car... heading south!

I want him, dead or alive!

Next morning, at dawn...

There!!

It's him!... Open fire!

RAT
TAT
TAT

Snakes! I'm being followed!

CRACK

TOOOOOOT

Caramba! A train!! ...We've got him. The road crosses the railway. He'll have to stop, or he'll be smashed to smithereens!

Tintin, my friend, this time it's all or nothing ...

If they stop me, I'm caught... and if that's a strong barrier, I'm dead.

Hello?... Border post 31?...
Patrol No. 4 here... A San-Theodorian car with a mounted machine-gun just raced past here, heading for the frontier.

Red alert!...San-Theodorian armoured car reported...
Man your posts!

Watch out, Snowy!...They're shooting at our tyres!

An armoured car tried to attack border post 31. It was destroyed and one of the occupants, a colonel, was taken prisoner.

In Sanfacion...

General!...General!...This dispatch has by telephone!

"An armoured car ... !!! This time it's war! That's what they want: that's what they'll get!"

Pass this communiqué to the newspapers. I want special editions on the streets in an hour!

Sanfacion Star! ... Extra! ... Extra! ... Sanfacion Star! ... Extra!

WAR! IT'S WAR!
A motorised column of the San-Theodorian army mounted a surprise attack today, but the enemy were repulsed by our valiant troops, who inflicted heavy casualties...

Hello?...Mr.Trickler?...Success! The Nuevo-Ricans have just declared war on us!...Yes...oversome new incident on the border...

The Gran Chapo fields are ours! ... Once again General American Oil has beaten British South-American Petrol!

In a fortnight all the Gran Chapo will be in Nuevo-Rican hands. Then I hope you in British South-American Petrol will not forget your promises.

The first chance we get, we desert, and...

... we look for thees fetish again.

Next morning...

This is Caraco, an Indian who knows the river well. But I doubt if he'd dare go... there.

I want to go down-river. Will you act as my guide?

Si, señor.

I...er... I want to visit the Arumbayas ...

Arumbayas! Very bad people! No! Caraco no go!

Chicken!

Wait, Caraco. Think it over. Look what I'll pay you ...

Caraco go. But Caraco very poor man. The señor will buy canoe of Caraco.

All right, I'll buy it.

Caraco know other white señor. He want to go to Arumbayas. Long, long time ago. Other white señor ...

I know, he never came back ...

And that doesn't bother you?

Several days later...

Soon is night, señor.

You're right. We must stop.

Tomorrow, we come to country of Arumbayas.

Goodnight, señor...

Goodnight, Caraco.

Next morning...

Where's Caraco?

The canoe is still there, anyway ...

He's left me!... Now I understand why he wanted me to buy his canoe... So I could go on alone!

A dart!... It's sure to be poisoned!... D'you remember, Snowy?... Curare!

I can't hear anything now. I must have shaken them off...

Cowards! Come on out and show yourselves, unless you're afraid to!

Tintin, you'll get yourself killed!

A white man!

Who are you? And what brings you to this place?

My name is Tintin... who... who are you?

My name is Ridgewell.

Ridgewell? The explorer? But everybody thinks you're dead.

What a pity! Or rather, what a good thing, because I've decided never to return to civilisation. I'm happy here among the Arumbayas, whose life I share...

And whose weapons you've adopted. What was the meaning of that little game of darts?

I just wanted you to have an unfriendly reception, to encourage you to leave at once. Believe me, if I'd wanted to kill you it wouldn't have taken more than one dart. Look, I'll prove it. You see that big flower over there?

Yes.

Good shot!

WOOAAAAH!

Ooh! I'm so sorry!

WOOAAAAH!

Don't worry, the dart wasn't poisoned. Use my handkerchief for a bandage.

Now, tell me how you come to be here in this country...

Well, it's like this. An Arumbaya fetish in a museum in Europe, brought back by the explorer Walker, was stolen and replaced by a copy. I noticed the substitution. Two other men were also on the track of the real fetish and who ever had stolen it.

I followed these two men to South America. They killed the thief on board ship and stole his fetish. But this one too was a fake. So now I'm trying to find the real fetish, and I still don't know where it is.

...Just as I still don't know what they were all after: Tortilla, the first thief, and his two killers. They all wanted the fetish. But why they wanted it is still a complete mystery. So I thought perhaps that here...

...among the Arumbayas I might learn something fresh about it...

Perhaps you may. It's quite possible...

Rumbabas! ... Sworn enemies of the Arumbayas! ...

What will they do to us? That's easy! They'll cut off our heads and by a most ingenious process they'll shrink them to the size of an apple!

Ahw wada lu'vali bahn chaco conats! Ha! ha! ha!

Just as I thought. He means our heads will soon be added to his collection!

They've gone... Snowy, you've absolutely got to save Tintin.

If I can find the Arumbaya village, and take this thing to them, perhaps they'll understand that its owner is in danger...

Meanwhile, in the Arumbaya village...
The Spirits tell me that if your son is to be cured, he must eat the heart of the first animal you meet in the forest...

I go, most powerful one!

What a strange animal! ... And what's it carrying in its mouth? A quiver! That's funny... I must try to catch it alive...

See, O witch-doctor. This cloth belongs to the old bearded one, and the quiver also. Perhaps the old bearded one is in danger?

You mind your own business! ... Give me the animal and go! ... I shall kill the creature and take out its heart; this I shall give to your son to eat. Go now!

And if you breathe one word of all this, I shall call down the Spirits upon you and your family ... and you will all be changed into frogs!

No danger now: he won't gossip... But he's right. The old bearded one may be in trouble. All the better! Let's hope he dies! Then I shall regain my power over the Arumbayas. Now, before I kill the animal I must burn these things... they might give me away.

Great Spirits of the forest, we bring thee a sacrifice of these two strangers ...

Stop, O chief of the Rumbabas! The Spirits of the forest do not accept your sacrifice!

These two strangers are friends of the forest. You will set them free.

V-v-very w-w-... well!

It's magic... witchcraft!

Magic?... Didn't you realise it was me speaking?... I'm a ventriloquist... Ventriloquism, I'd have you know my young friend, is my pet hobby.

Good heavens!

Brother Arumbayas, you are about to witness a remarkable phenomenon ...

My end!

We will take out this animal's heart and give it, still beating, to our sick brother ...

YAAH!

The old bearded one!

The villain!... Lucky you decided to come and look for us Karamelo... otherwise we'd have been too late.

Let me introduce Avakuki, chief of the Arumbayas

Owar ya? Ts goota meecha mai 'tee

It's a pleasure, sir...

Naluk. Djarem membah dabrah nai dul? Tintin zluk infu rit'h. Kanyah elpim?

Dabrah nai dul? Oi, oi! Slaika toljah. Datrai b'giv dabrah nai dul ta 'Walker. Ewuz anais gi. Buttiz'h felaz tukahr presh usdjuel. Enefda Arumbayas ket chimdai lavis gutsfa gahtah'z. Nomess in'h!

I was just asking the chief about the fetish, and this is what he told me... You'll be interested ...

I'm all ears!

Nitwits!

Lohrluv ahduk! Ai tolja tahitta ferlip inbawl intada oh'!! Andatdohn meenis ferlip ineer oh'!

I should never have started to teach them golf! They just can't learn to play properly!

But to come back to the fetish. The elders of the tribe still remember about the Walker expedition. It's quite a tale. They know that a fetish was offered as a token of friendship to walker during his stay with the tribe. But as soon as the explorers had left ...

The Arumbayas discovered that a sacred stone had disappeared. It seems that the stone gave protection from snake-bite to anyone who touched it. The tribe remembered a half-caste named Lopez, the explorers' interpreter, who was often seen prowling around the hut where the magic stone was kept under guard.

The Arumbayas were furious. They set off in pursuit of the expedition, caught up with them, and massacred almost all the party... Walker himself managed to escape, carrying the fetish. As for the half-caste, although badly wounded, he too got away. The stone, probably a diamond, was never recovered... That's how the story goes.

Now I understand... The whole thing makes sense!

Listen!... The half-caste steals the stone, and to avoid suspicion he conceals it in the fetish. He thinks he'll be able to get it back later on...

But the Arumbayas attack the expedition and Lopez is wounded. He has to flee without the diamond. And that's it!... The diamond is still in its hiding-place, and that's why Tortilla, and after him his two killers, tried to steal the fetish.

So now all I have to do is find the fetish... and return to Europe!

Some days later...

Meanwhile...

We simply must get hold of a canoe...

Look!... There's a canoe... and with one man only... But... I think I am seeing things... or it's a dream... There's a man...

Caramba!... It's Tintin!

We'll rest here for a while before we continue our journey...

So we meet again, eh?

Let's start talking!... Did you know the 'Ville de Lyon' had been completely destroyed by fire... burnt out!

Really?

Yes, really! And the fetish you left in your trunk has been destroyed!... Burnt!... All because of you... You are going to pay dearly, my friend!

No! I told you... The real fetish wasn't aboard...

Oho! So you lied to us! Well, now you're going to tell us where it is. And don't try to fool us again!

I've already told you: I know nothing about it...

Now listen carefully! There's one more round left in this gun. On the count of three if you haven't talked, I swear that bullet's for you! One!...two!...

Look out! A snake!!!!...

Where?

YOW!

Here!

OOH!

Caramba!!!

!?

Ha! ha! ha!
I've got you at last! ...

Good! ... Now they're safely taken care of, let's see what he's got in his wallet.

OHO!

Where did you get this note? ... Tell me!

In the ship, on our way to Europe. Tortilla dropped it. But we didn't know what it meant. Tortilla was just a fellow passenger. We only realised the significance of the paper when we read about the fetish being stolen from the museum. ... Then we decided we'd try to get the fetish away from Tortilla.

Excellent! ... Now, the only thing we don't know is how Tortilla got hold of this note. But since he's dead, I don't suppose we'll ever discover that! ... So now, gentlemen, let's get moving!

And behave yourselves!

What are you planning to do with us?

No problem. I shall hand you over to justice. I think you well deserve it!

Hand us over to justice? ... Ha! ha! ha!

Don't count your chickens before they're hatched, my fine friend ...

Teep heem een! ...

Got you!

Bravo!

There! ...

Hee's feenished! Look, Alonso. Thees piranhas, thees man-eating feeshes, they come for heem already!

But if you really want to catch her, maybe you could hitch a ride from the air-base over there ... It's not far ...

... catch the 'Washington', eh? ... Hmm... maybe... We happen to have a plane going out to her... to deliver some mail ...

First service for lunch, please! ... First service for lunch! ...

There goes Goldbarr... He's off to lunch. Now's our chance!

Ramón!... Ramón!... Look!... I've got it!

Oooh! My fetish!
My beautiful fetish!

Mr. Goldbarr?...I'm terribly sorry your fetish has been damaged.
I can explain everything if you'll allow me...

...I think you should know that your fetish is stolen property.

Yes, I know where you bought it, and I'm sure the man who sold it to you acted in good faith...

If that's the case, I wouldn't consider keeping the fetish for a moment longer. If you're going back on shore, can I ask you to take it and restore it to the museum where it belongs? I'd be greatly obliged!

May I please speak to the Director?

And now, Snowy my friend, we're going to take a well-rest!

THE ADVENTURES OF TINTIN

by HERGÉ

Hodder & Stoughton

book based on the characters created by Hergé: TINTIN AND THE LAKE OF SHARKS

An illustration of a treebeard owl, a bird with a long, thin, tree-like beard, perched in a forest. The owl has yellow eyes and a long, pointed beak. It is surrounded by bare tree branches and a soft, hazy background. A speech bubble in the upper right corner contains the text "HOOM, BABY!".

HOOM, BABY!
